Johnson, Wilson Open Talks on Nuclear Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson and British Prime Minister Harold Wilson today opened a two-day conference on the nuclear weapons crisis in the Atlantic alliance.

They reportedly hope to develop some new formula which would win West German and other Allied support in spite of French opposition.

Wilson went into the White House meeting shortly before noon. He and the President scheduled another conference in late afternoon and two more working sessions Tuesday in addition to a White House dinner tonight.

He predicted, however, steps toward strengthening the North Atlantic Treaty Organization which has been badly split by the question of how to organize nuclear weapons forces—and particularly by controversy over the U.S.-sponsored multilateral force project.

MLF is a proposed 25-ship surface fleet, manned by international crews and armed with U.S. Polaris nuclear missiles.

Wilson, with special British nuclear problems to solve, evidently hopes to emerge in some kind of middleman role, by developing with the President the rough outlines of a program to: —Absorb Britain's nuclear force into a NATO system.

—Revise the U.S. MLF plan so that it will be more acceptable to other European Allies as well as West Germany. Both U.S. and British diplomats were reported hopeful of an understanding between Wilson and Johnson which would then be discussed with West German and other European leaders.

The Johnson-Wilson conference will continue through Tuesday.

The President will then meet with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko on Wednesday. That meeting will afford Johnson an opportunity to stress to the new government in Moscow his view that the projected NATO nuclear force — opposed by the Soviet Union — will not lead to the spreading of nuclear weapons.

Wilson arrived from London Sunday night. Obviously conscious of the danger that other Allies might think Johnson and he were "ganging up" to decide the nuclear organization issue, he told newsmen "we don't expect to finalize anything."

The head of the British Labor government which took power in mid-October described the conference as "the beginning of a fruitful cooperation, the beginning of a series of discussions which we hope will lead to the strengthening of the alliance."

Wilson has made many trips to Washington in recent years and has met Johnson before, but this is the first occasion on which they have held policy discussions as prime minister and president.

Officials said the range of talks between Johnson and Wilson would go far beyond the NATO nuclear weapons question. One issue certain to arise is the war in South Viet Nam.

Ice Storm Plagues East New York

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP) — Cold and hardship continued today for thousands of families in an ice-crippled eastern portion of New York. Power crews sought to restore heat and light for nearly 40,000 customers.

The sun glistened this morning on a winter wonderland created by ice-laden trees and power lines. Temperatures ranged down to 10 below zero in the wake of one of the state's worst storms.

The bitter cold added the threat of frozen water pipes for stricken residents, most of whom were in an area bounded generally by Albany on the south, Glen Falls on the north and Amsterdam-Gloversville on the west.

Three deaths were attributed to the weekend onslaught of snow, sleet and freezing rain.

Many schools closed Friday remained closed today. Others served as emergency centers for those driven from their homes. Churches, fire houses and other public places also were opened for emergency use, and cooking facilities were provided.

The Weather Bureau said tonight and Tuesday would be a bit warmer, amid scattered snow.

Weekend Accidents Take 19 Ohio Lives

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ohio's traffic toll mounted steadily the first two days of the weekend and then slackened as weather—and driving conditions—improved.

The latest count showed at least 14 persons killed in traffic in the period beginning 6 p.m. Friday and ending at midnight Sunday.

Fires, another weather-related factor, took four lives and an accidental hanging brought total toll to 19 deaths.

HE WASN'T LOST — Bradley Beedle, 2, who wasn't really lost, holds a tearful reunion with his mother, Ginger, in Long Beach, Calif. Missing for more than 18 hours, he was found on the doorstep of an apartment where they used to live, a little more than three blocks from their present home.

Mississippi Awaits Look At FBI Data

PHILADELPHIA, Miss. (AP) — The case of the three slain civil rights workers is heading toward its next climax Thursday when the government unveils evidence at a preliminary hearing.

Mississippi authorities await a look at the FBI evidence. They must decide if they will press murder charges—a state offense—against some of the 21 men arrested last Friday.

"The first thing I'm going to do," said Dist. Atty. W. H. Johnson Jr., "is review the evidence very, very carefully, and then make the decision on whether the state will take action."

Johnson said the FBI has given assurances it will turn over its evidence to the state.

The FBI has charged 19 men with violating the civil rights of the slain workers. Two other men were charged with being accessories. These are all federal charges. The preliminary hearing could be a delicate legal crossroad. It is scheduled in nearby Meridian before U.S. Commissioner Esther Carter.

The civil rights workers, Michael Schwerner, Andrew Goodman and James Chaney, a Negro, disappeared near Philadelphia last June. Their bullet-riddled bodies were found in an earth-filled dam Aug. 4.

Fancy Lighter Is Too Efficient

CINCINNATI (AP) — The trouble with those fancy cigarette lighters is that they may be too darned efficient. Fire Marshal Arthur Miller said his men rushed out to the Chem-Pack, Inc., plant Sunday when an eager-beaver lighter apparently set fire to papers on the desk of president George H. Neal. The damage was estimated at $720.

The lighter is shaped like a small house and flares up when a tiny window is opened. Miller said Neal told him he'd seen the lighter go into action on its own on past occasions.

Cold War Melts for Moment As U.S., Russian Kiddies Visit

By ROBERT HOLTON

MERRICK, N.Y. (AP) — Two Russian and three American youngsters clasped hands across the threshold of an American home the other day and the cold war, for the moment, melted.

The pair of Moscow teenagers and my three eldest children conducted in our home last Tuesday what probably was the first small-fry East-West summit conference in history.

The experiment was a smashing success.

Timothy Holton, 7, and Yuri Popov, 14, agreed to exchange backyard fort-building plans.

THE SAFEST place in Circleville for an empty five gallon oil can apparently is the corner of Court and Main St. . .

One mysteriously appeared on the sidewalk near the First National Bank one night last week. The can was there Thursday morning. . .

It was still there today, patiently waiting for its owner, or some other curious soul, to put it to use.

Small Coins Are Lacking

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Reluctant Christmas shoppers who find the crowds and the rush hard enough to take apparently face a new obstacle this year—waiting for clerks to find enough coins to make change.

The Associated Press took a look at the coin shortage in Ohio's major cities and found almost without exception: The situation is not good.

Bankers generally agreed on reasons for the shortage and said it is becoming particularly acute at the beginning of the Christmas shopping season.

"It's getting terrible," said one Columbus bank employee.

"We could use a lot more coins," a Cincinnati banker complained.

One bank official said he thinks the Kennedy half-dollar which replaced the Liberty coin has helped make the fifty-cent piece scarcer of all.

"People hear these are hard to get, so they just hang on to them," he said.

Ohio Solons Eye Windup

Special Assembly Session Drones On

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's map-minded lawmakers, busy the past month considering new congressional and state legislative districts, embarked today on what many hoped would be the final week of their special session.

However, legislative leaders declined to predict a windup, and although legislative reapportionment practically was resolved, chances seemed slim for adjournment by Friday.

Congressional redistricting loomed as the major obstacle and it appeared headed for a joint conference committee. The Senate approved its version 20-12 Friday but it showed practically no resemblance to the one approved earlier by the House.

Conferees were expected to be named tonight or Tuesday to consider redistricting, called for in a recent U.S. Supreme Court decision requiring equal representation on the basis of population.

All that remained to be done on reapportionment was Senate approval of the House-passed version which was reported out of the Senate State Government Committee Friday without a change.

This would clear the way for the matter to be placed on next May's primary election ballot. Redistricting is being handled as a bill but reapportionment must come in the form of a constitutional amendment.

Various other matters dotted the legislative agenda as the fifth week of the session got under way. They included proposed pay raises for legislators, county officials, and judges along with resolutions calling for annual sessions and four-year terms for representatives.

Senators already are elected for four years. Awaiting Senate action is a bill that would hike lawmakers pay from $5,000 to $8,000 a year. The House approved last week the legislation which also includes hikes for county officials, the latter to vary according to population.

The House may vote tonight on the judicial pay raise bill which includes increases for the judges of the State Supreme Court, appellate judges, and judges of the Common Pleas courts.

Bishop's Condition Remains 'Critical'

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Bishop Francis Gerald Ensley of the Ohio West Area of the Methodist Church, remained in critical condition in Riverside Hospital today, suffering from injuries received in an automobile accident Saturday morning.

The 57-year-old bishop suffered fractured ribs and possible internal injuries when his automobile skidded of icy Ohio 31 about 14 miles north of Marysville and crashed through a fence into a field, throwing him from the car.

You Remember 23 Years Ago?

PEARL HARBOR (AP) — An oil slick catches the rays of the sub-tropical sun, expanding in a rainbow of color on the water's surface.

A garland of brilliant flowers joins the wide kaleidoscope. A gray U.S. destroyer moves quietly through the water, its crew lining the rails, staring at Ford Island on this quiet Monday morning in December.

The place is Pearl Harbor; the time, the present.

The oil slick is from a sunken battleship; the flowers from an anonymous mourner who makes an annual pilgrimage to Pearl Harbor at this time each year.

The harbor is a serene scene, with the mountains of Oahu a backdrop for the blue water.

But 23 years ago today, a few minutes before 8 a.m., hell broke loose at Pearl and in 110 minutes, more than 2,000 Americans were dead or dying; another 1,700 were injured; eight battleships were sunk or disabled; four others were less damaged; and other smaller vessels were damaged, sunk or sinking.

Today is "Pearl Harbor Day."

Members of veterans organizations visit the white memorials which straddle the sunken battleship Arizona. Wreaths are placed in the chapel, prayers said.

Arriving quietly in ones and twos for the Navy-provided shuttleboat are some whose sons or husbands were among the 1,102 men still entombed in the Arizona.

You can still see parts of the rusted superstructure jutting from the water. Occasionally, oil still bubbles to the surface from the old ship.

The U.S. flag flies over her, signifying the USS Arizona remains a commissioned vessel of the fleet on this December 7, 23 years after the United States was plunged into World War II.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor and South Vietnamese Premier Tran Van Huong today opened planning talks expected to lead to bombing of Viet Cong supply lines in Laos.

Taylor returned to Saigon Sunday from Washington amid increasing speculation that the war against the Communists would be broadened. It was believed that President Johnson had ruled out attacks against North Viet Nam, but the Red supply routes through southern Laos were considered likely targets.

Officials said no announcements were expected from the U.S.-Vietnamese planning sessions.

"I think as time goes on the results of the decisions will become apparent," one official said.

Taylor on his return said new measures by both the United States and the South Vietnamese would be discussed. He refused to say what they were.

The South Vietnamese forces scored a major victory against the Viet Cong in a fierce nine-hour battle Saturday on the Ca Mau Peninsula, at the southern tip of South Viet Nam. The government said 115 Communists were killed in the encounter at Tan Lac village, about 150 miles southwest of Saigon.

South Vietnamese officials said their side suffered 86 casualties, but the battle was regarded as a psychological boost for the government's war effort, which had been sagging badly.

Six U.S. airmen were wounded in the attack as U.S. helicopters raked the Communist battalion with rockets and light bombers dropped 500-pound bombs. Communist fire damaged 14 helicopters.

In another weekend battle at Binh Gia, 40 miles southeast of Saigon, government forces ambushed a Communist hamlet, killing 23 Viet Cong and seizing 16 civilian hostages. The government lost seven men and five were missing. Fourteen were wounded.

The memorandum stated that the Soviet Union favors the establishment of denuclearized zones in northern Europe, the Balkans, Africa, the Indian Ocean, the Middle East and in other areas. It also said the Soviet Union is prepared to discuss the sequence of the elimination of all bomber aircraft.

Another standard Soviet proposal reiterated in the document was the appeal for a non-aggression pact between the Warsaw Treaty countries and the members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

U.N. Assembly Hears Proposal

Time Said 'Ripe' For Nuclear Ban

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko today called for a world summit conference on disarmament.

The Soviet proposal was made before the U.N. General Assembly in the first major policy declaration of the new Soviet leadership.

Gromyko also submitted a detailed memorandum on disarmament, outlining measures to be considered at the proposed conference.

The Soviet foreign minister declared that the present international situation was ripe for progress on such measures as a complete ban on nuclear weapons, the liquidation of foreign bases and the reduction of military budgets.

U.S. Delegate Adlai E. Stevenson listened intently as Gromyko spoke in quiet, conciliatory words.

The Soviet delegate specifically endorsed Red China's proposal for a meeting of the heads of state of all countries to consider a ban on all nuclear weapons. He also backed the recommendation of the non-aligned nations at Cairo for a world disarmament conference.

He said: "The Soviet government is prepared to participate in further discussions in any forum and at any level, including the highest one, of the problem of general and complete disarmament, of banning and destroying nuclear weapons, and of measures for the curtailment of the arms drive."

Gromyko pledged the Soviet government's complete support to the United Nations and promised to use it "for easing international tensions, for international cooperation and for the development of relations among states with different social systems on the basis of the principles of peaceful coexistence."

Gromyko referred to what he called the "great verbal swordplay" on the issue of U.N. peacekeeping. He made no specific mention of the formulas being advanced to resolve the crisis over failure of the Russians to pay peacekeeping assessments, but stressed that all solutions must be in accordance with the U.N. Charter.

In the Soviet view, the assessments violated the charter because they were approved by the General Assembly instead of the Security Council.

In a separate disarmament memorandum, Gromyko repeated the main proposals previously advanced by the Soviet delegation at the Geneva arms conferences.

The memorandum stated that the Soviet Union favors the establishment of denuclearized zones in northern Europe, the Balkans, Africa, the Indian Ocean, the Middle East and in other areas. It also said the Soviet Union is prepared to discuss the sequence of the elimination of all bomber aircraft.

Another standard Soviet proposal reiterated in the document was the appeal for a non-aggression pact between the Warsaw Treaty countries and the members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Interstate 71 'Hazards' Are Under Study

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Safeguards for sightseers and lack of gasoline stations are some of the problems plaguing the state highway department and the newest stretch of Interstate 71 between Columbus and Cincinnati.

The problems were pointed up today by James W. Shocknessy, interstate expediter and chairman of the Ohio Turnpike Commission, during a session of the interstate task force meeting.

Shocknessy asked the highway department to take some action on the problems. He wants a parking space with "adequate safeguards" for sightseers at the towering I-71 bridges over the Little Miami River near Lebanon for one thing.

He said the Ohio Highway Patrol had warned him that tourists are stopping their cars and walking across the 70 m.p.h. traffic lanes to enjoy the view. He asked proper parking space and lookout points be constructed by the start of the 1965 tourist season.

Shocknessy next suggested temporary signs warning motorists of the lack of service stations along the new 80-mile stretch of I-71. Construction and planning of some stations is already under way but will not be available to motorists for some time.

There was one other problem mentioned by Shocknessy today — fossil hunters who park their cars at I-71 hill cuts to investigate the freshly bared rock formation. He had no ready solution for this one.

Educator Freed In Assault Case

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — The assault and battery charge filed by the mother of a 10-year-old girl against a school principal she accused of hitting her daughter, was dismissed by County Judge George Schoonover after a hearing here Saturday.

The charge had been filed against Dale Johnson, 28, principal and fifth grade teacher at Waterloo Elementary School west of Athens, by Mrs. Mona Dickerson, mother of Susan Dickerson of Route 2, Nelsonville.

The judge's dismissal came at the request of the defense attorney whose motion said Ohio law requires proof of permanent injury and express or implied malice, and there was no proof of either.

School Board At Westfall Named in Suit

The Westfall Board of Education has been named defendant of an $8,800 civil suit filed in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court.

Mrs. Mary Jane Funk, 947 Circle Drive, is seeking the money from the school board for two years' salary allegedly due her.

The petition claims that Mrs. Funk entered into a contract with the school board for a teacher's position for the school terms of 1964-65 and 1965-66. She was to be paid the sum of $4,400 per school year.

Mrs. Funk claims she was assigned to teach English in the high school, but that her general basic certificate as a teacher was in home economics "which was known to the defendant."

TO MEET requirements for the English position, Mrs. Funk attended college classes during the summer and received her certification from the State Department of Education.

The plaintiff claimed she was notified in the latter part of August by George D. McDowell, county superintendent, that her contract would not be honored "since she was not certified to teach English and speech." The petition says that the plaintiff "has reason to believe that some person, or persons, were withholding her temporary certificate at that time."

Mrs. Funk alleges she was refused employment twice by the superintendent. The petition stated she was unable, at such a late date, to find employment elsewhere and has, up to the present, found no employment.

She claims she has incurred damages in the amount of $8,800 by the acts of the school board and its refusal to employ her under the terms of her contract.

Mrs. Funk is represented by the local firm of Crist, Davis and Weldon.

on the move

There's a feeling about South-Central that's vital, live, active. The company is "on the move" to bigger and better contributions to its service area; to the best possible service at the lowest possible rates for its member-consumers.

Typical of the "on-the-move" activity around the three South-Central offices, is the recent installation of I.B.M. Model 1440 electronic data processing equipment in the Canal Winchester offices.

Because of this installation and the changes in procedure it made possible, South-Central members now have their meters read by company employees; pay no late payment charges.

All information pertaining to the more than 20,000 South-Central consumers is recorded electronically, available electronically on short notice.

And in January of 1965, the electronic equipment will start billing member-consumers at a new low rate—the fourth rate reduction by South-Central in a 42-month period. A boost to the community economy of more than $100,000—a reduction of approximately 4.3% to each South-Central residential and farm consumer.

Keep your eye on South-Central — it's on the move!

SANTA and the SINGING TURTLE

Synopsis: Prince Chad, soon to be King of Razenpie, is on his way to Santa Land. He is followed by Womp the manwhitch who plans to keep him from returning to his kingdom. The Prince meets George, the Singing Turtle.

CHAPTER THREE

The Snowman

The prince dropped to his knees beside the turtle.

"Are you really a singing turtle?" he cried.

"You heard me," replied George.

"Let me hear you again!"

The turtle stretched his neck out full length, tilted his head, closed his eyes and opened his mouth.

"Tra la la la! Tra la la la! De Da!"

The notes came clear and true, ringing in the frosty air like silver bells on a sleigh.

"There," said George. He opened his eyes and tucked his head down closer to his shell. "Now I must be off, for I am on my way to the Christmas Music Festival in Santa Land." "Santa Land! Why, that is where I am going and I do not know the way. May I come with you?"

"I do not think so," replied George. "Ordinary boys and girls cannot go to Santa Land." "Well, I don't suppose I am really ordinary. I am Frederick Chadwick Anthony Matthew Christopher John, called Prince Chad for short."

"That's not an ordinary name, certainly," agreed George.

"On Christmas day I am going to become King of Razenpie!"

"So that's why you are wearing that silly hat!"

"It's not a hat. It's a crown and it is very valuable, I expect."

"Well, come along, come along," grumbled George, starting down the road. "We'll go together but you must not interrupt me when I practice my singing."

"Oh, I promise!" exclaimed the Prince as he fell into step beside the turtle. "Will you sing at the Festival?"

"Naturally. That is why I am practicing. The Christmas Music Festival is on Christmas Eve. It is held only once every hundred years and musicians from the whole world come to perform. Oh, it is something to hear! There are prizes of course, but for me it is enough just to sing before Santa Claus. Imagine! What an honor!"

"Yes, yes!" agreed the Prince. "Still I do hope you win the First Prize!"

"It's been my heart's desire for a hundred years," said George and he threw back his head and began to practice his scales as they walked.

Meanwhile, hidden in the brush that bordered the road, Womp, the manwhitch, crept along behind them, smiling to himself and biding his time.

They had been travelling for perhaps an hour when suddenly the Prince halted. "What is that?" he whispered.

"What is what?" said George crossly. "You promised not to interrupt me."

"But — I heard something. Didn't you hear — a kind of groaning?"

"I hope you aren't referring to my singing!"

"No — a real groan! Listen!"

They stood still and sure enough they heard a moaning — not loud or troubled, but sorrowful like the sad sound a wind sometimes makes around the window when you're lying in your bed at night.

But there wasn't any wind now and there wasn't any person and there wasn't any animal anywhere that they could see. George and the Prince looked at each other and didn't know what to make of it.

"Let's go," said George at last. "Really, time is very short,

MIAMI (AP) — Some days it doesn't pay to be a hero. Take Lou Burdak, 34:

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, Dec. 7, the 342nd day of 1964. There are 24 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1941, between 150 and 200 Japanese planes attacked Pearl Harbor. Within three minutes, the Navy had suffered more damage than in all of World War I. American casualties exceeded 4,000; of these 2,117 were killed.

On this date: In 1787, Delaware became the first state to ratify the federal constitution.

In 1842, the New York Philharmonic Society gave its first concert.

In 1916, David Lloyd George became British prime minister.

In 1941, Canada and Australia declared war on Japan.

In 1944, Washington announced that all six of the Japanese aircraft carriers which attacked at Pearl Harbor in 1941 had been sunk.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican governors are the most self-confident branch of their party at the moment, as they showed in a statement issued after their weekend meeting in Denver.

They got some reason for their confidence from the 1964 elections which were a disaster for the rest of the party. While Republicans lost out on the presidency in the elections and in Congress dropped 38 House seats and two in the Senate, the party registered a net gain of one in governorships.

But in the very statement which they intended as a chart for the Republicans' future, the governors revealed the party's dilemma in national politics. They wound up sounding like a lot of Democrats.

Although they didn't say so there was another good reason for their willingness to tell the party what it ought to do.

In the 1968 presidential race the Republican candidate will probably come from the ranks of the governors. No Republican in Congress at this time looks like a presidential prospect. The statement left little doubt that it was critical of Dean Burch, handpicked by Sen. Barry Goldwater to be chairman of the Republican National Committee.

But it named no names. Therefore, it was so ambiguous that some of the governors, who supported Goldwater, could say it wasn't aimed at Burch while others could say it was.

The governors covered a lot of ground in the statement:

1. They sketched an outline of principles they think the party should follow after the 1964 disasters.

2. They suggested the National Committee take steps to include from now on Republican governors and members of Congress — who they said should be included in a GOP leadership conference next year.

3. They didn't mention Goldwater but so worded what they said that he'd have to be obtuse not to take it as a rebuke.

4. They suggested the National Committee "adopt leadership" that represents a "broad view of Republicanism and practices a policy of inclusion rather than exclusion."

Govs. George Romney of Michigan, William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania and Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York said No. 4 was a clear call for throwing Burch out of the committee chairmanship.

The thrust at Goldwater was contained in this paragraph calling for Republican party support of civil rights:

"We feel it pertinent to remind our fellow citizens that most Republicans in Congress this year supported the federal Civil Rights Act." Goldwater voted against.

The principles, which the governors unanimously said the party should follow, turned out to be very moderate, indeed, and are hardly distinguishable from those Republicans and Democrats had followed in the past.

Example: Support for old-age security, hospital and medical care, decent living standards, public education, mental health, and the needs of youth.

It's just because the Democrats talk the same way that the two parties for years have looked like twins, and sounded like them.

Goldwater and his followers were less enthusiastic about welfare programs. For this reason, among others, his candidacy symbolized a break with pre-1964 Republicanism.

The governors' statement, therefore, can be interpreted as an attempt to get away from

Lot of Phones

WELLINGTON, N. Z. (AP)—The Post Office claims third world position for New Zealand in the number of telephones per head of population — just ahead of Canada, but behind the United States and Sweden.

The Post Office said 902,000 telephones are installed for the 2,500,000 New Zealanders.

Goldwater's views and resume the party's previous positions. The governors ruled out "radicalism" of left or right.

But for the greater part of the past 32 years those previous Republican positions had failed to win the presidency or control of Congress. But these are the positions the governors say are necessary.

So the party's dilemma is how to win with them in the future if it fared so poorly in the past. And Goldwater's views can hardly be considered the answer, after what happened to him.

State of the World

As astute observer can always find cause for pessimism in the world, by merely examining existing conditions in country after country. The point is, almost no country is as secure as the United States, or as prosperous, or as literate or as advanced in technology. Conditions in many of them are downright chaotic by comparison.

In Europe, the eastern half is thrown into a period of uncertainty because of the new and as yet mysterious leadership in the Kremlin, the western half by the old but equally mysterious eccentricities of Charles De Gaulle. Britain is in economic trouble, and many of the Labor government's solutions seem guaranteed to upset the economic further.

Africa is aflame with unrest and downright warfare in a number of areas, aided and abetted by the long arm of the Red Chinese. The middle east for the moment is relatively quiet, but the enmities created within NATO by the Turkish-Greek confrontation on Cyprus have not disappeared far under the surface.

Southeast Asia is a complete mess, with the United States not so slowly being pushed out of the continent completely. The Vietnam war is no longer a stalemate; it is a rout.

On this side of the Atlantic, Latin America has just undergone a fresh batch of revolutions; no one knows when the next round may come. Haiti is ruled by a self-professed dictator for life, Bolivia, Ecuador, Honduras, Guatemala and the Dominican Republic are still trying to right themselves from the effects of military coups.

Brazil has the whole region nervous with its continuing runaway inflation, Argentina is worried sick lest Juan Peron make good on his promise to return. And of course there is still Cuba.

It is not difficult to become depressed when surveying the 1964 edition of the world. But there is one antidote to pessimism which still manages to live through crisis after crisis, war after war, and emerge unscathed and outwardly unconcerned by all the peculiar antics of her fellow members in the world of nations. Long live Switzerland. May there be many more like her in the years ahead.

Better Star Gazing

Astronomy, one of the most ancient scientific arts, would receive a strong shot in the arm under a plan proposed by the National Academy of Sciences' Committee on Science and Public Policy.

The panel proposes a $224 million expenditure in the next decade to provide American astronomers an up-to-date assortment of equipment from which to view the universe. The proposal is coupled with a complaint that present optical telescopes and radio telescopic equipment were introduced before the space age came into its own, and much of the equipment is outmoded.

In optical astronomy the United States is leading the world both in quantities of sophisticated instruments and in discoveries from them. In cooperation with radio astronomy, in which the U. S. is only a second-rate power, optical telescopes have moved man's eye to the outer perimeters of the known universe.

With man preparing to ascend into the universe personally, the panel feels it has become necessary to improve his preparation for space journeys by increasing the numbers of big telescopes available for serious study of other planet systems.

Certainly the argument has merit, and with more than $5 billion being spent to land the first man on the moon, an expenditure of less than 5 per cent of this amount to provide astronomers with the tools needed not only to keep tabs on the space adventure but continue to develop the new theories on plane development and universe potential, is not exorbitant by comparison.

Of particular value would be more optical telescopes in the 150 to 200 - inch size. The panel recommends three of these, because it says only two now exist that "are adequate for pushing current frontier problems to the observational limit."

The age of space exploration must inevitably be even more exciting than the current preliminary activity. It would be a pity if earth observers found themselves ill - prepared for the long awaited main event when it comes.

SINCE BEA LILLIE and Bert Lahr are, in my opinion, two of the funniest people on the stage today, and Walter Kerr is the best practicing drama critic, I take the liberty of quoting these two capsule comments by Mr. Kerr: 1. "You no sooner begin to feel, as you go back to see her year after year, that Beatrice Lillie has surely exhausted her improbable repertoire of ladylike leers and hollow glissando laughter, than she cocks what seems to be an altogether new eyebrow at you and you're off again—hurtling into the aisle." 2. "I must assume that Bert Lahr is the crumpled descendant of the very first goat."

One day I hope to see Miss Lillie and Mr. Lahr reunited in a triumphant Broadway musical.

An absent-minded hostess in the Park Avenue sector had to introduce at a cocktail party, a guest she had known for years, but whose name had eluded her momentarily. Unfortunately, she resorted to the old ploy, "I'm dreadfully sorry, but how do you spell that name of yours again?" The guest replied icily, "S-M-I-T-H."

Speaking of YOUR HEALTH...

By LESTER L. COLEMAN, M.D.

The person who might have discovered the answer to cancer was killed today.

The person who might have won the Nobel Prize in literature was killed today.

The person who might have been president was killed today.

All three were killed by a devastating epidemic disease — the disease of accidents.

Accidents are a major public health problem. They take a staggering toll in human life, family misery and dollars.

The statistics of accidents are astronomical. But to many they may be just meaningless figures.

There were 101,000 accidental deaths in the United States in 1963.

There were 16,000 accidental deaths in children under 15 years of age in 1963.

Thirteen million school days were missed because of accidents.

More impressive than these tireless numbers is the painful realization that one happy, healthy five-year-old, spared from polio, measles, chicken pox, mumps, tetanus and a mastoid infection, was killed by a drunk driver.

All the startling new medical advances of antibiotics, cortisone, vaccines and heart surgery are ineffective against the disease of accidents.

Since there is no cure for accidents, the only answer is prevention.

Most potential accidents can be recognized and prevented by using ordinary common sense and anticipatory judgment. Painstaking precautions must be taken to protect our greatest and most priceless resource — the young.

New York Maneuverings

By John Chamberlain

The "Eastern Establishment" has taken it on the chin in both major political parties recently, as the November Presidential victory of a Texan over an Arizonan serves to remind us. But this does not mean that Democratic and Republican politicians in great and populous states will not be contending in the future to swing the balance of power back to the Atlantic littoral.

New York State, of course, remains the biggest plum from the national convention point of view. Control of the New York Governor's office can make or break the Presidential chances of any ambitious candidate. It is the key to Nelson Rockefeller's hope for a revival of his national influence; it is also the key to Congressman John Lindsay's hope for reaching the peak. And now that Bobby Kennedy has committed his fortunes to New York State, he must ultimately get his man into the Albany governor's mansion to support his hopes for the White House.

would be harmony all around with Nickerson in Albany, Bob Kennedy in Washington as Senator, and Jack English handling home affairs for both of them.

The national significance of this must remain blurred as long as Lyndon Johnson keeps his hold on the country and the national machinery of the Democratic Party. But if LBJ should blunder, a Kennedy-Nickerson-English power bloc in populous New York State could easily develop important national leverage. The undercover jostling for position, which may be only half-admitted by the principles to themselves, is already on.

State Senate Redistricting Bill Brings Sharp Partisan Reaction

By REED SMITH
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Majority Republicans facetiously call them the Collins and Jones congressional districts.

But minority Democrats say it's a crying shame the way GOP senators voted to re-map Ohio's 23 districts and create a new 24th to benefit their party in general and two fellow senators in particular.

The senators involved are Oakley C. Collins, Ironton coal mine operator, and Charles H. Jones, Hamilton attorney. Both have congressional ambitions for 1966.

Collins objected in a GOP senatorial caucus to a house-approved plan removing Clermont County from the 6th District and placing it in a new 24th District that also included Butler and Warren counties and part of Montgomery County in south-eastern Ohio.

Unless Clermont County remained in the 6th District, Collins assertedly warned, he would not support the senate version of the drastically revised redistricting measure.

Although Senate Republicans held 20 votes, with only 17 needed to approve the redistricting bill, they did not want to chance any defections from support of the measure to keep the special session is keyed.

Accordingly, the Senate version of redistricting emerged on the floor with a 24th District composed of Butler, Preble and Warren counties and the south-western corner of Montgomery County added for good measure.

Clermont remained in the 6th but Fayette County was shifted to the neighboring 7th District and Fairfield County, now in the 10th, was added to the 6th. Fairfield is the home county of Walter H. Moeller, Democrat who defeated GOP Rep. Homer E. Abele in the Nov. 3 election.

In that election, Republican domination of Ohio's congressional delegation was cut from 18-6 to 14-10.

The final party-line floor vote on the Senate's version of redistricting was 20-12, with one Democrat absent. The House approved its version earlier by a vote of 84-32 with 12 Republicans opposed and 17 Democrats voting yes.

Leaders predict the two versions will wind up in a Senate-House conference committee to iron out differences for final approval, after which the special session should head down hill.

Gov. James A. Rhodes called the 105th Legislature into extraordinary session to act on redistricting and more than 40 other matters last Nov. 9 while Republicans still held firm control.

As a result of Democratic election gains, each party will have 16 senators in the 106th General Assembly, convening Jan. 4, and the Republican House majority will be reduced from the present 86-42 division to 75-62.

Pressure for congressional redistricting by Republicans while they have the votes stems from U. S. Supreme Court "one man, one vote" decisions requiring election of lawmakers from areas of virtually equal population.

Legislative leaders in each Ohio house said they attempted to revise present unequal population districts to bring them within 15 per cent of a statewide average of 404,332.

But Sen. James P. Kilbane, D-Cuyahoga, asserted the Senate bill "flies in the face of the federal decision."

And Sen. Francis D. Sullivan, D-Cuyahoga, voiced objection to what he called "ramrod and star chamber procedures" accorded the measure.

Rep. Kline L. Roberts, R-Franklin, whose home county was split into two congressional districts, said standards were not violated in the Senate version and that his party "will bear the criticism from those who are not satisfied."

"It is a political bill purely and simply," he added.

Major revisions in both the House and Senate congressional maps involved Franklin County, split into new 10th and 12th districts; Montgomery County, portions of which were placed in other districts; Summit County, which received similar treatment, and Cuyahoga County where Negro leaders claim their strength in the 21st District is being diluted by shifting various wards into the 20th among other changes.

Another change would transfer Noble County, home of Democratic Rep. Robert T. Secrest, from the present 15th District into the 18th served by Democrat Rep. Wayne L. Hays of Flushing, Belmont County.

Rep. Charles F. Kurfess, R-Wood, headed the House Elections and Federal Relations Committee which drafted the lower chamber's version of redistricting and appears likely to be on the expected conference committee.

Across the Statehouse, Sen. Theodore M. Gray, R-Miami, headed the Senate State Government Committee handling revision of the house-approved measure. He and Jones, along with Roberts were among those consulted earlier by Senate Majority Leader C. Stanley Mechem, R-Athens, on charges.

The 1st and 2nd Districts within Hamilton County remained essentially the same in both House and Senate versions of the bill.

The 3rd District would contain all of Montgomery County, except for six western townships in the House bill but the Senate version would shift four townships in the southwest corner of the county to the 24th and two townships in the northeast corner to the 4th District.

The present 4th District composed of the counties of Allen, Mercer, Auglaize, Shelby, Darke, Miami and Preble, was unchanged by the House. The Senate version included the counties of Van Wert, Allen, Mercer, Auglaize, Shelby, Darke, Miami and the Montgomery townships of Mad River and Wayne.

5th District, House—Counties of Williams, Fulton, Defiance, Henry, Paulding, Putnam, Van Wert, Wood, Ottawa and Sandusky from the present 13th. Senate—Williams, Fulton, Defiance, Henry, Paulding, Putnam, Wood, Ottawa, Sandusky and the eastern Lucas County townships of Oregon and Jerusalem.

6th District, House—Pickaway, Fayette, Ross, Highland, Pike, Brown, Adams, Scioto and Lawrence. Senate—Clermont, Brown, Adams, Scioto, Highland, Pike, Ross, Pickaway and Fairfield.

7th District, House—Logan,

8th District, House—Hancock, Seneca, Hardin, Wyandot, Crawford, Marion, Richland and Morrow. Senate—Hancock, Hardin, Union, Delaware, Marion, Morrow, Wyandot, Crawford and Seneca.

9th District, House—Lucas County. Senate—Lucas, except Jerusalem and Oregon Townships.

10th District, House and Senate—Western part of Franklin County.

12th District, House and Senate—Eastern part of Franklin County.

11th District, House—Lake, Geauga, Portage, Ashtabula and part of Trumbull, with Warren and two townships shifted to the 19th. Senate—Lake, Ashtabula, Geauga, Portage and six townships from northern Summit County, plus Springfield Township from southeastern Summit County.

13th District, House and Senate—Erie, Huron, Lorain and Medina.

14th District, House—Summit County, except five southern townships and the city of Barberton. Senate—Summit, except six townships moved into the 11th.

15th District, House—Muskingum, Guernsey, Noble, Perry, Fairfield, Morgan, Washington, Hocking, Athens, Vinton, Meigs, Jackson and Gallia. Senate—Muskingum, Perry, Morgan, Hocking, Athens, Washington, Vinton, Meigs, Jackson, Gallia and Lawrence.

Full Frying Pan

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Fishermen say that occasionally a bass will strike at just about anything. But the bass near here seem to have gone beyond the limit. They hit viciously at a homemade plug fashioned out of a spoon decorated with a tail of metal foil Christmas tree icicles. Oldtimers said they'd never seen anything like it for slaying the bass.

In Ireland, Christmas eve often is called the Night of Cakes. This name is based on an ancient custom, still practiced, of baking special Christmas cakes spiced with caraway seeds for eating on the night before Christmas.

Four Dreams of Man Topic
For Monday Club Program

Miss Mary K. May presented the program when Monday Club met in the Circleville High School cafeteria.

Mrs. Jacques Sweeney, president, conducted the session.

For the program Miss May presented a recording of a lecture by Dr. John Furbay entitled "Four Dreams of Man."

Miss May said Dr. Furbay, an internationally known lecturer, author and world air commuter, has for years directed the global education programs of Trans World Airlines on four continents. He is a two time Oscar winner having received the Brewer Trophy which is aviation's recognition for outstanding service in advancing air-age concepts.

He served as educational attache in the U. S. Embassies of Costa Rica and Colombia, received the Doctor of Philosophy from Yale University and has done research at the Sorbonne, Paris, and the University of London.

His work has taken him everywhere. He is said to be "the most traveled man alive" and has flown over four million miles. He has set himself the task of breaking down the barriers of misunderstanding regarding other peoples philosophies of life.

Dr. Furbay believes that the four dreams of man are: "Peace, Food, Freedom and Human Dignity". He said these are sought

Surprise Birthday
Party Is Conducted

A group of friends attended a surprise birthday party held for Willis Fannin Friday evening in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Evan Fannin, Route 1, Stoutsville.

The evening was spent playing games. Refreshments were served.

Those present were Bobby Helwagen, Marcia Rhodes, Lettish Miller, Vic Hunt, Tim Haley, Jerry Norris, Wertie Teets and Tony Reeser.

If your oven-fried chicken isn't so crisp as you would like it, try using a higher temperature (400 or 425 degrees) than the usual moderate temperature (350 or 375 degrees) often suggested in recipes.

Cook extra oatmeal and pour into a greased small loaf pan; chill. Next morning, turn out, slice and brown in hot butter or margarine. Serve with butter and honey. Wonderful for breakfast on a cold morning!

If you want to brighten that discolored aluminum pan, make applesauce or cranberry sauce in it.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren
Reshuffle Once More!

DEAR ABBY: While a senior at the university last year, fell in love with another senior. We were married in July and I agreed to take a job on campus to help put my husband through graduate school. I became suspicious when I never saw him studying and he appeared so nonchalant about finals that I checked up on him. I found out that while I was working like a horse all day he was playing bridge. Then I discovered that he wasn't even registered in the university! He says he loves me and if I give him another chance he'll enroll next term and make it up to me, and give up bridge entirely until he's finished with school. What do you make of this and what should I do?

STUNNED

DEAR STUNNED: Let's just say your husband finessed your jack! Give him another chance. But save your heart and lead with a club if he cheats again.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been very happily married for many years. I am his second wife. His first wife died and left him with three small children. She had been gone a year when I met him. All the children are married now.

A few days ago his daughter's husband showed me a picture of a little girl and said she had been fathered by my husband while he was in the service in another country about 20 years ago. (He spent four years there.) I was shocked. This son-in-law is planning to confront my husband with this in the presence of the entire family when we get together for the holidays. My husband had a heart attack last year and I'm afraid he might suffer a setback. He is now 62 years old. What should I do?

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: First, tell your husband of the sadistic son-in-law's threat and assure him that, true or false, it means nothing to you. Second, both of you tell the son-in-law that until and unless he surrenders the picture and drops the blackmail, there will be NO father at family gatherings where the son-in-law is present.

DEAR ABBY: I don't agree with your advice that a nursing mother should get out of sight and nurse her baby in private. Ninety per cent of the people don't even notice a mother nursing her baby, and those who do are only admiring the mother for the wonderful thing she is doing. So I say that when a baby is hungry, feed him, no matter where you are.

I am the mother of two and I nursed both my children wherever I happened to be and thought nothing of it. That is what God gave women breasts for—not to hold their dresses out.

113 E. Main St. D. E. McDONALD, Owner

there were a few tense moments brought about by highly undiplomatic utterances of the Holton children.

"Is Mr. Khrushchev really still alive or did they kill him?" Timothy asked at the dinner table.

"He is living in a nice apartment in Moscow," Yuri replied without a hint of annoyance. "He was just too old and too sick to rule. So he resigned."

There was another awkward moment at the dinner table when the children began to recite a prayer. The two Russian children and their chaperone, Miss Zena Evgrovi, just looked on.

This puzzled Timothy, so he asked, "Why don't you pray? Don't you think there's a God?"

His mother quickly turned the conversation to another subject.

At the junior high school, Yuri seemed ill at ease with the children and gave the impression that he felt as though he were living in a fish bowl.

Once in our home, however, he became relaxed and laughed a lot and talked without prodding. Irena was outgoing from the start.

One of the articles in our early-American home that most attracted the two visitors was a large Boston rocker that tilted its occupant far back when it was rocked.

"We have these in the homes in the country but in the city where I live we never see them," Yuri said. "They are a lot of fun to rock in."

The electric refrigerator, automatic washer and drier and the home freezer appeared to hold little interest for Yuri and Irena.

Yuri was the more inquisitive of the two, asking such questions as how much American journalists earn, why they don't live in a city apartment, how much a compact car cost and why American children don't go to school six days a week as they do in Russia.

It was on a walking tour of the village that Jane probably began to take a deep liking for Yuri. She had tripped and stubbed her toe and began to cry.

Yuri lifted her into his arms and in Russian whispered soft words of comfort. Soon she stopped crying.

"Just like my little sister," Yuri explained. "You know children are children, no matter where they live."

After dinner, Irena insisted on helping to clear the table while Yuri joined the menfolk watching the day's news on television.

When a picture of Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko and U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk came onto the screen, Yuri's eyes lighted up.

"Look how friendly they are," he said. "It was your dead President Kennedy who brought that friendliness. He is the most liked American among Russian children."

To close out the day, the two visitors were taken to a toy store to select a gift to take back with them. Yuri chose an Indian bow and arrow set. Irena selected a painting set.

"I like cowboy and Indian movies," Yuri said. "So I will take this back with me."

In return, each of the children was given a small medal commemorating a Soviet space venture.

As their two guests drove away in a car toward their Manhattan hotel Jane turned to her mother and said with tears in her eyes:

"Pray that they come back again Mommy. I love Yuri."

Revenue Act of 1964 Lists 40 Important Changes

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is one of a series of 11 articles prepared by the Internal Revenue Service designed to explain important changes in Federal Income Tax laws brought about by the Revenue Act of 1964. Although taxpayers are aware of the tax cut in 1964, they may not be familiar with many other changes that will affect Federal Income Tax Returns they will file after Jan. 1, 1965. Taxpayers are urged to clip and save these articles as reference material.

The Revenue Act of 1964 is the best news that taxpayers have received in years.

Although the most important feature to the average taxpayer is the reduction in the income tax rates for the years 1964 and after, there are many other new provisions which will require every taxpayer to re-evaluate his current and future tax planning. Overall, the Revenue Act of 1964 made about 40 changes in the Federal Tax Laws.

Among the more important changes which are applicable to the 1964 Income Tax Returns are:

1. A reduction in the income tax rates from 16 per cent on the first $500 ($1000 for joint returns) to 77 per cent on income over $200,000 ($400,000 on joint returns). This compares with the old rates of 20 per cent on the first $2,000 to 91 per cent taxable income over $200,000. NOTE: Since the tax rate reduction specified in the Revenue Act of 1964 is to occur in two steps, the tax rate will be further reduced on 1965 taxable income to a range of 14 per cent on the first $500 to 70 per cent on income over $100,000. This of course, will be applicable to the 1965 Income Tax Returns filed in 1966.

2. A new income averaging provision which provides relief to those individuals having widely fluctuating incomes.

3. Changes in the rules governing moving expenses.

4. A new minimum standard deduction which will remove many low income taxpayers from the tax rolls.

5. Liberalization of the rules governing retirement income credit and deductions for medicine and drugs. These changes will be of particular importance to taxpayers over 65.

6. Benefits to elderly taxpayers by a new provision to exempt from tax part or all of the gain on sale of a residence.

7. Liberalization of the rule governing child care expenses.

The IRS has listed those changes made by the Revenue Act of 1964 which will probably result in less tax to the taxpayer on his 1964 Income Tax Return. There are other changes, however, which eliminate some of the deductions to which taxpayers were previously entitled.

1. Many state and local taxes will no longer be deductible. Among these are the State of Ohio taxes on cigarettes and alcoholic beverages. Driver's license fees and charges for automobile license plates are no longer deductible.

2. Casualty loss deductions have been "tightened up." A new "$100 deductible" provision has been imposed on personal casualty and theft losses. Only the excess over $100 per loss is deductible.

3. The sick pay exemption has been decreased by the 1964 Revenue Act.

4. Certain limits have been placed on the amount of "tax free" group life insurance an employee may receive from his employer.

These and other changes in the Federal Tax Laws will be discussed in this series of articles.

The aim is not to give complete information on each topic, but to call the changes to taxpayers' attention so they can investigate for themselves those changes affecting them. Information on any or all of the changes made by the Revenue Act of 1964 may be obtained at any local Internal Revenue Office.

As an aid in preparing their 1964 Income Tax Returns, taxpayers are urged to clip and save these articles as a reference.

Nationalists Consider Tshombe Treacherous to African Unity

By LYNN HEINZERLING
LONDON (AP) — In most African history books, the Belgian-American rescue mission to the Congo will be called an aggressive imperialist plot and an act of treachery by Moise Tshombe against the African people.

The simplified lexicon of African nationalism makes Patrice Lumumba a martyred hero and Premier Tshombe is an enemy. Belgian and American efforts to put the Congo on its feet are judged rampant imperialism.

President Charles de Gaulle will make no new friends in Africa by receiving Tshombe as he did in Paris this week. Among such African leaders as Ahmed Ben Bella of Algeria, Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana and Abdel Gamal Nasser of Egypt there can be no redemption for Moise Tshombe.

These are the leaders whose voices are heard loudest and clearest in the Organization of African Unity. Not many African leaders dare speak against them in the organization.

Many Africans blame Tshombe for Lumumba's death in 1961. He was deposed as the Congo premier, arrested and Tshombe was leading a secessionist movement. The facts about Lumumba's death have never been satisfactorily explained.

African nationalists also hold it against Tshombe that he has always maintained close relations with the so-called imperialist bloc — with the Belgians, with Roy Welensky of Rhodesia and in recent months with the United States.

In the supercharged atmosphere of Africa, it is not politically defensible to work in hand with the so-called imperialists.

When Tshombe authorized the Belgian and American governments to make their rescue attempt at Stanleyville he joined the imperialists as far as most African leaders are concerned. The fact that the Stanleyville "People's Republic" of Christophe Gbenye was receiving modest assistance and guidance from Red China would not be a factor of any importance in nationalist eyes.

Gbenye, as a proclaimed disciple of Lumumba and an opponent of Tshombe, could accept aid from any quarter and be on the right path.

The leading nationalists of Africa simply do not accept Tshombe as the legal head of the Congolese government although he was installed formally and legally under the Congo's new constitution by President

Parlez-Vous Lionese?

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Noah would have wished that this had come sooner.

Rangers of South Africa's Kruger Park game reserve are learning to speak Lionese, some Zebra, and — for advanced students — Hippopotamish.

The rangers are taking small tape recorders into the bush to study what animals say to each other and how and when.

If the new scheme is successful, a version of the ultrasensitive machine will be used to send out sounds which, for instance, will draw lions away from water holes so that a timid gazelle can come along and have one for the road in safety.

The rangers have already had an SOS from Salisbury, Rhodesia, airport officials. The storks, not scared of the aircraft, share the runways with them. So the airport has asked the Kruger Park rangers for a guaranteed noise that will tell the stork that they definitely are not wanted.

Joseph Kasavubu. They accept Kasavubu but not Tshombe. The Congo is one of the most strategically placed nations in Africa in the Organization of African Unity's campaign against white rule in southern Africa. It will be urgently needed if this campaign ever gets off the ground. The leaders of this campaign do not see in Tshombe an African leader who will stand with them to the bitter end in such a campaign. Tshombe, by African standards, is politically smart, sophisticated and untouched by the xenophobia which now prevails in some African countries. If he succeeds in destroying the Gbenye regime and the rebel movement — and the Belgian-American operation was undoubtedly a lift toward that end — he will be an important African political figure.

Nasser, Nkrumah and others wanted to impose Antoine Gizenga on the Congo after Lumumba. Gizenga was a Congolese politician with practically no following. He reigned briefly in Stanleyville, but finally realized that he would not prevail.

Not all African leaders oppose Tshombe with the same bitterness as Nkrumah, Ben Bella and Nasser.

President Philibert Tsiranana of the Malagasy Republic (Madagascar) supported him when he was a secessionist and supports him today. Nigeria does not go all the way with the extremists. A few other African leaders pay only lip service to the campaign against Tshombe. But the really vocal leaders,

8 The Circleville Herald, Mon. Dec. 7, 1964
Circleville, Ohio

who set the tone for sessions of the Organization of African Unity, have been able to make their way to the fore. They want a Congo amenable to their plans and political inclinations whatever this may do to nation's economy and the social well-being. It appears that Tshombe, Kasavubu and particularly the powerful head of the Congolese national army, Gen. Joseph Mobutu, do not want that kind of Congo.

Meanwhile, foreign military advisers, military equipment, planes and ammunition are scattered throughout Africa — French, German, British, Chinese and Russian. But to the Congo they mean "imperialism."

Third Time Try Fails CHS, Teays Valley 56-52 Victor

By STEVE JONES

The Teays Valley High School basketball team maintained its mastery over Circleville High School Saturday as the visiting Tigers were defeated, 56-52.

A capacity crowd filled the spacious Teays Valley gymnasium for the game — the third in the series between the two Class AA schools of the county.

The proverbial third time charm failed to work for Circleville, loser of both previous contests. The Vikings withstood a late rally by the Tigers that narrowed the margin to only the four-point final spread.

Carrying the Vikings to their victory, as he did the night before against Westfall, was big Bill Fortner, a dandy 6-4 center.

FORTNER scored 28 points for the winners — 20 of them coming in the first half when Teays Valley built up a 10-point edge. Firing 25 times from the field, he connected on 10 field goals. At the charity stripe he hit eight of 12 attempts.

Behind Fortner in the scoring was Dave Roese. The senior guard notched 10 points, six of them in the crucial final quarter to help save the win for Teays Valley.

John Thomas led Circleville's scoring attack. Although it was one of his lowest point totals this year, the hard working senior's accuracy was improved as he hit eight of 17 field goal attempts. At the foul line he connected on two of three tries.

The remainder of the Circleville scoring showed good balance. John Maxwell and Doug Roth both tallied nine points as each sank four from the field and a single charity toss. Doug Price and Chet Iery each contributed eight points.

Tim Stonerock, who started at one guard spot, and his replacement, Ron Seward, both failed to score.

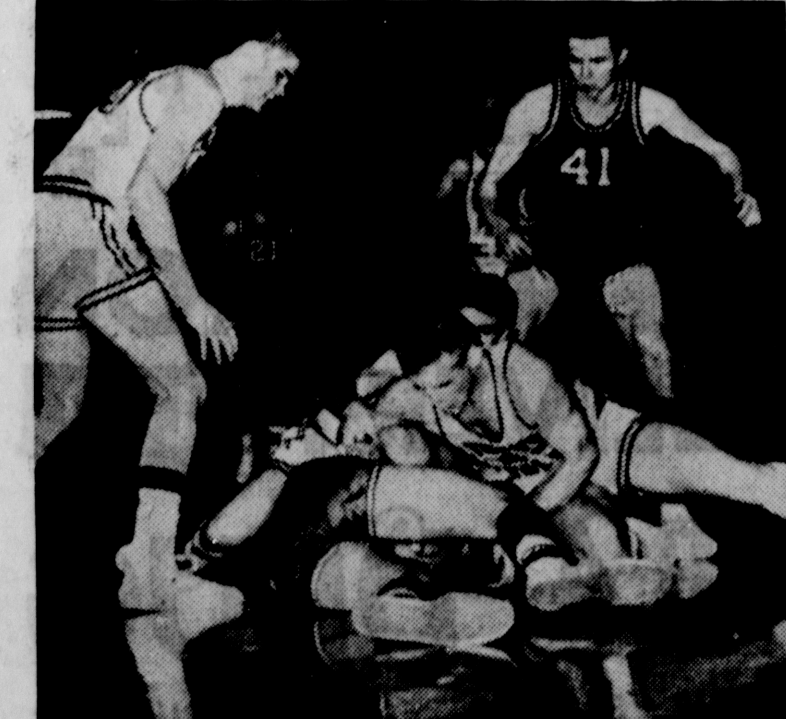

The Vikings threatened to make the game a runaway in the opening minutes of play, jumping off to a 7-0 lead before Circleville could get on the scoreboard.

THEN the Tigers began a battle to get rolling. By the end of the first quarter, the score was 16-11 with the Vikings out front.

Midway through the second quarter, Circleville pulled within one point, 19-18. The score stayed that way for a minute and a half with neither team able to connect.

With 2:30 showing on the clock until halftime, the Vikings connected on two quick baskets and then continued to score as their lead ballooned to 10 points at halftime, 29-19.

At the start of the third period Circleville came back strong and pulled within four points shortly after the canto started. But once again Teays Valley rallied in late stages of the period and the score was 41-32 as the final quarter got under way.

The Vikings opened the fourth interlude with a bucket and the Tigers then proceeded to score seven points, once again narrowing the margin to four. That was the closest CHS could get until the final buzzer.

With four minutes to go, Roese scored for the Vikings on a jump shot. Just 30 seconds later Fortner put in the only two-point shot he scored in the fourth quarter and Teays Valley was out front by eight.

FROM then until the final two seconds the teams traded baskets, with Circleville gaining a point on a foul shot.

In those last two seconds Iery was able to get three points — on a foul shot and then a quick bucket on a rebound.

Circleville actually outscored the Vikings from the field, sinking 21 of 62 attempts for a 33 per cent accuracy rate. Teays Valley connected on 19 of 53 tries.

However, at the foul line the Tigers had only 16 attempts and could capitalize on 10. The Vikings toed the line 27 times, sinking 18 for the winning margin.

The Tigers move back into the South Central Ohio League Friday, hosting Hillsboro. On Saturday, they continue their home stand when Reynoldsburg invades the local gymnasium.

The Vikings have an open date Friday and then host Hillsboro on Saturday.

CIRCLEVILLE'S reserves gained their first win of the season, gaining a 39-30 decision.

Steve Dade, dead at the foul line where he scored nine points also picked up 10 points from the field for a game high of 19.

Danny Gibbs found the range for five field goals and 10 points and Joe Winner scored five markers, as that trio accounted for 34 of the points.

Also hitting the scoring column for the young Tigers were Mike Martindill and Danny Speakman with two each and Tom Jenkins with one.

Larry Murphy and Rod Teets each tallied nine for the young Vikings. Vic Love and Ron Leatherswood both came up with four points, Jim Estep two and Mike Stone and Pat Kunkle one each.

The little Tigers have a 1-3 record. Teays Valley's junior varsity is 1-1.

Class AA All-Ohio Grid Team Comes from Big, Small Cities

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's high school gridiron greats of 1964 won well-deserved recognition today as they were named to The Associated Press Class AA all-state team.

Four area gridgers, three from Circleville and one from Teays Valley, made the honorable mention list of the All-Ohio class AA grid team named today by the Associated Press.

Jeff Ankrom was picked at tackle while Jack Martin got the honorable mention nod at center. Both were stalwarts in the line for the Circleville Tigers this year. Mike Ramey was accorded mention at an offensive back.

Dave Roese, Teays Valley's rugged senior, was picked as a linebacker.

THEY come from everywhere, from big towns to crossroads, and sheer individual ability won their berths on the squad recognized as official by the Ohio High School Football coaches' Association.

The selections were made from six all-district squads selected by sports editors of Associated Press member newspaper, radio and television stations. Team won-lost records had nothing to do with the choices, although hot-shots from many of the better teams won positions.

Verbie Walder of Dayton Roth, the quarterback, tossed 18 touchdown passes this year, 38 in his career. Halfback Buster Yannon of Steubenville Central Catholic scored 159 points and rushed 1,765 yards in 220 carries; halfback Joe Yager, two years ago the Class A player of the year at Frankfort, shifted to Class AA Chillicothe to rush for 1,073 yards, score 130 points, punt for a 39-yard average, kickoff, do some of the passing and pass catching, and also play on defense.

The big showpiece is Bob Gladieux, 170-pound 5-11 senior from Louisville.

Bob, who does everything from his fullback spot, scored 196 points; rushed for 1,481 yards to outgain by 38 yards the pass-run efforts of 10 beaten foes; completed 10 of 19 passes for 178 yards and three touchdowns; intercepted six passes; punted for a 35-plus yard average, and returned two punts and one kickoff for touchdowns. Here they are, Ohio's gridiron jewels:

Yank Stadium Again Holds Cards' Fate

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It wasn't so very long ago that the St. Louis Cardinals were vitally concerned with what went on in Yankee Stadium in New York and it will be that way again next Saturday.

This time it's the National Football League's Eastern Division title going up for grabs and the Cardinals will be the football variety instead of baseball. The Cleveland Browns had a chance to wrap up the Eastern title Sunday but lost to St. Louis 28-19 allowing the Cards to creep within a half-game of the lead. Cleveland visits New York Saturday and the Giants, struggling through a dismal season after three straight Eastern crowns, once again are a vital factor in the Eastern race.

Should the Browns win Saturday, Sunday's game between the Philadelphia Eagles and St. Louis won't mean a thing. But a Giant victory could give the Cards the crown if St. Louis gets by the Eagles the following day.

The Giants lost their ninth in 13 games Sunday, bowing to Minnesota 30-21. In other games, Detroit ended Baltimore's 11-game winning streak 31-14, Pittsburgh topped Washington 14-7, Philadelphia downed Dallas 24-14, and San Francisco defeated Los Angeles 28-7. Saturday it was Green Bay 17, Chicago 3.

Charley Johnson keyed the Cardinal triumph, pitching two touchdown passes and running short yardage for two more scores as St. Louis stalled Cleveland's title drive. Johnson completed 15 of 22 for 167 yards.

Lou Groza kept the Browns in the game, booting four field goals.

The Giants, who handed St. Louis one of its losses and held the Cards to a tie in their other game, showed signs of life against Minnesota. Clarence Childs raced 100 yards returning a kickoff for a TD and Gary Wood handled the New York offense adequately.

But scrambling Fran Tarkenton tossed two TD passes and Fred Cox kicked three field goals as the Vikings came from behind to win it.

Milt Plum threw three TD passes as the Lions ended Baltimore's win streak that started the second week of the season.

Pittsburgh scored the winning touchdown midway in the final period and then halted a last-minute Washington drive for its victory. Ed Brown's 47-yard pass to Gary Ballman produced the deciding points.

Rookie Jack Concannon sparked the Eagles' victory over Dallas, completing 10 of 20 passes including two TD's.

John Brodie threw a pair of TD passes and an aggressive San Francisco defense stalled Los Angeles as the 49ers reversed an early season loss.

It was only fitting and proper. Back in October the Oakland Raiders, with some last-minute heroics, delivered what appeared to be a knockout blow to Boston's hopes of an Eastern Division title in the American Football League.

And now, with some last-minute heroics, the Raiders have knocked the Patriots right back into the drivers' seat.

The Raiders' Tom Flores did the job this time, hitting Art Powell with a three-yard touchdown pass with only four seconds left and boosting Oakland to a 16-13 victory over Buffalo Sunday.

Boston had been struggling desperately to catch up ever since Mike Mercer kicked a 38-yard field goal with five seconds left in the October clash when Oakland tied the Patriots 43-43 and appeared to knock them out of title contention.

They finally overhauled the Bills by beating Kansas City 31-24. That left Buffalo with a 10-2 record and Boston at 10-2-1. The Patriots are idle this week, while Buffalo has a game with Denver. Regardless of the outcome of the Bills' game with Denver, the Eastern title goes on the line in the final game of the regular season, Boston at Buffalo.

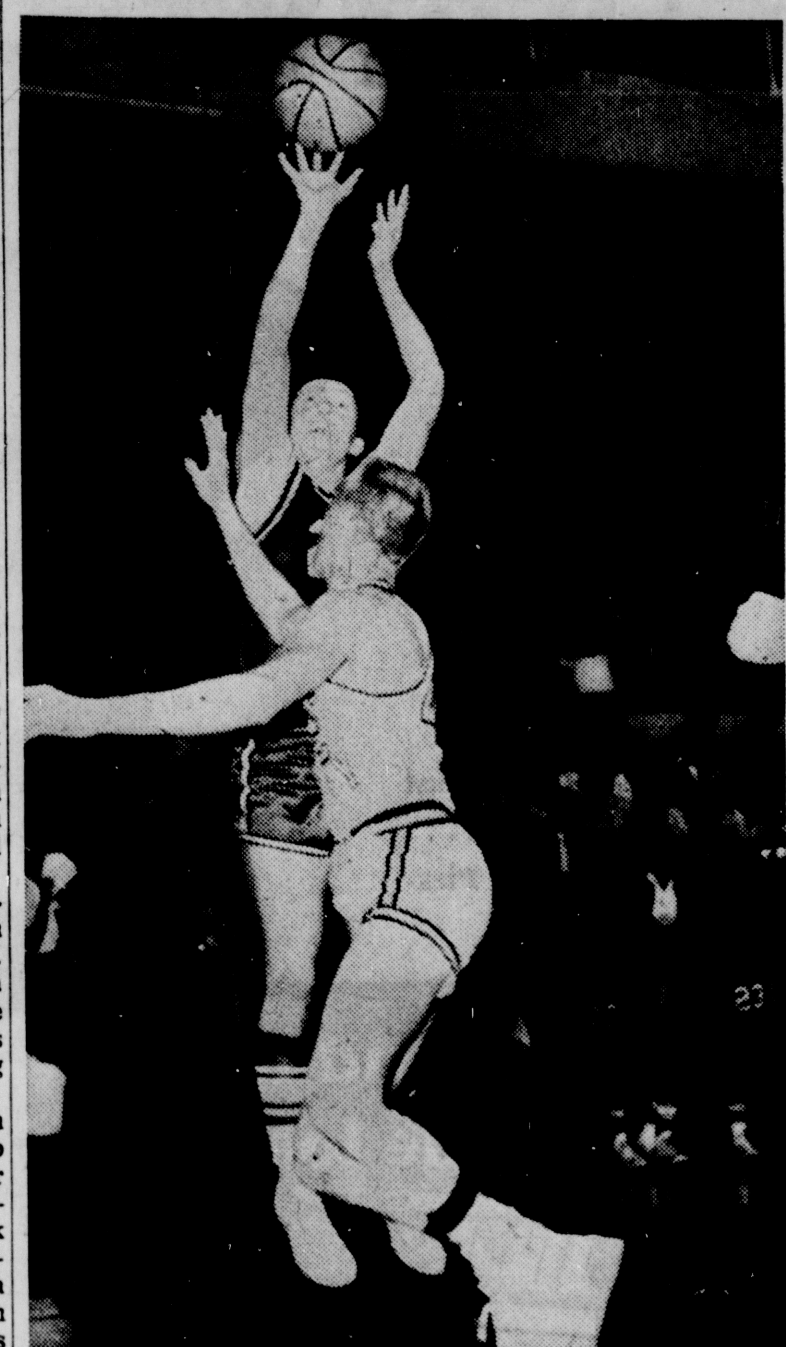

The San Diego Chargers wrapped up the Western title, their second straight and fourth in the five-year history of the AFL with a 38-3 romp over New York in the only other league game played over the weekend.

Boston's Babe Parilli passed for 300 yards and three touchdowns in leading the Pats to their key victory. A 29-yard touchdown pass to Art Graham broke a 17-17 tie and put Boston ahead to stay.

San Diego totaled 466 yards on offense against the hapless Jets and scored the first three times it got its hands on the ball. John Hadl completed 15 of 17 passes for 240 yards and two touchdowns.

Art Wall finished out of the money in last January's Los Angeles Open but the following week he won the San Diego Open.

Braves Edge Redskins in 53-52 Bout

Second Half Effort For Logan Elm Sparked by Jones

Logan Elm edged visiting Kingston, 53-52, Saturday in a thrilling clash between the two traditional rivals.

Raymond Jones came off the bench for the Braves to spark a second half effort. He scored 13 points — all in the last two quarters — and converted two clutch free throws late in the final period that tied the game.

The Braves' domination of the boards was the big difference. Logan Elm's Darryl Reichelderfer pulled down 19 of the 55 hauled in by the winners. Kingston could clear only 29 off the boards.

GAME scoring honors went to Mike Search of Kingston who sank eight field goals and six charity tosses for 22 points. Dick DeLong tallied 13 for the losers.

Rick Shaw hit 15 points for Logan Elm and Jeff Lutz contributed 10 for the Braves' balanced attack. Reichelderfer had nine points and Mike Spangler six.

From the field the Braves converted 35 per cent of their attempts while Kingston had a 36 per cent accuracy mark. At the foul line Logan Elm hit 11 of 16 tries and the Redskins 14 of 23.

The little Braves won by a convincing 45-19 margin in the preliminary tilt.

A weekend twin bill for Logan Elm finds Hamilton Twp. invading the Braves' gym Friday. Unio to play host Saturday in a Scioto Valley Conference tilt.

Top AL Rookie Wins Bat Title

BOSTON (AP) — Outfielder Tony Oliva of the Minnesota Twins is the first rookie ever to win a big-league batting championship.

This was confirmed with the release of the official 1964 averages which showed that the young Cuban hit .323 last season to pace the American League. Brooks Robinson of Baltimore was the runner-up at .317.

Oliva recently was named the AL's Rookie-of-the-Year. Robinson captured the circuit's Most-Valuable-Player award.

Oliva paced the loop in four other departments, hits with 217, doubles with 43, total bases, 374, and runs, 109. Baltimore's Robinson also led in runs batted in with 118.

Farm Bureau Prexy Lists Goals To Accomplish in '65

Loring Leist, Pickaway Farm Bureau president, outlined four major goals to be accomplished for the coming year when the organization's board of directors met here Saturday night for a monthly session.

President Leist pointed out that the Pickaway unit was recognized as one of the top 10 counties in Ohio at the recent statewide Farm Bureau Annual Meeting in Columbus. "We had a most successful year in 1964 and now must accept the challenge to do even better in 1965," he added.

Here are the goals as outlined by Leist:

1. To strive even harder to keep our members and the public informed about the workings of the Farm Bureau and what they are doing to help farm people.
2. To achieve a county membership of 625 farm families in 1965.
3. To strive for better attendance at all scheduled County Farm Bureau activities.
4. To cooperate with other community organizations to make Pickaway County a better place in which to live and rear our families.

MRS. Hoyt Timmons and T. E. McFadden, delegates to the Ohio Farm Bureau Annual Meeting, reported an interesting session. They said there was much enthusiasm regarding Farm Bureau's venture in purchasing the controlling stock of a national retail food chain. "It is too bad all Farm Bureau members do not have the privilege of being delegates at one of these annual meetings," Mrs. Timmons said.

Richard Hansen, Route 3, Circleville, and John Stevenson, Route 2, Circleville, co-chairmen for the 1965 Farm Bureau Membership Campaign, disclosed
